apart from burial or cremation, there's been a new, greener way - promession.

google it or see the 2 links below:

in a nutshell: it's freeze-drying the body, shake it to turn it to powder, removing moisture & recycling any metal residue, the remaining powder can be handled in a no of ways.

It's green, takes up less energy & attractive to those who hate the notion of being "burn" .
